Fighting on Austro-Italian Frontier The fighting on the Austro-Italian frontier has not yet assumed great proportions, although the Austrians report the capture from the Italians of two summits on the east ridge of Kreuzberg. Battles are in progress or the Carinthian frontier and in the coastal district near Karfreit.

Italian Mobilization Complete. Italian reports say that the mobili-ation of Italy's forces is now complete. It is admitted that although the encounters with the Austrians thus far have been merely outpost skirmishes, they invariably have re-sulted in Italian successes and given the Italians advantageous positions on Austrian territory, German Submarine Activity. German submarines are still showing much activity.

It is a firmly established fact that advertising is good for everybody. It has its various forms but newspaper advertising is held in the highest esteem by those who have experimented with the different methods, and in that connection there is one point upon which everyone is in complete accord and that is persistency.

Persistency stands in the forefront-above and beyond every other advertising thing. The more times you say a thing; the more times you display a trade mark or a distinguishing feature, the more times you get your name, your busineess, your message and your product before the public eye, by just that much do you get a better hold upon the desired trade.

This is the kind of a service which the newspaper furnishes and in eastern Connecticut there is no medium which covers the territory so completely and so thoroughly as The Bulletin. Its value as a newspaper gives it increased value as an advertising medium. If you are not using The Bulletin's columns persistently you are not treating yourself fairly. Tell us your problem and start now.

How Mistake Was Made

Blame for the attack on the Gulflight was placed by the foreign office upon the proximity of two British patrol boats and the absence from the steamer's freeboard of the distinctive markings usually carried by neutral ships in the war zone. "That the attacked steamer carried the Ameribserved at the moment of firing the

The expressions of regret and offer of reparation in today's note follow the principle outlined in the circular recently sent to neutral nations by Germany, disclaiming any intention of attacking neutral vessels carrying non-contraband cargoes.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION CONCLUDES ITS HEARINGS

New York, June 4.—The federal rade commission concluded its hearings in this city today after a number of business men had appeared before it and given their views regarding the proposal to permit American manufacturers to combine for the purpose of competing in foreign markets, princi-pally in South America, with exporters of other nations.

With a few exception, all of the witnesses, who were connected in one way or another with the export business agreed that exporting combination were necessary if competition abroad was to be successful. Such combinations, it was suggested, might fix for-eign prices and divide among their members the expense attendant upon the marketing of goods. The general opinion seemed to be that such combinations would not in any manner affect domestic prices. Many of the witnesses said they believed such cooperation was impossible unless the Sherman anti-trust law should be amended.

A distinct feeling prevails that a more definite attitude at Washington wil result in hastening a solution of the Mexican problem without foreign aid. How this is to be done nobody professes to know, except General Carranza himself and he expresses the opinion that his intended re-occupation of Mexico City soon will place the constitutionalists in a better position o be recognized by the Washington

Reply being Formulated.

That General Carranza intents to eply to President Wilson caused some surprise, as it was at first felt that the warning did not invite a reply. How-ever, when Mr. Silliman called at the ighthouse today he was informed that a reply was being formulated by Jesus Jrueta, constitutionalist foreign min-ster. It was stated that the tone of the reply would be appreviative, friendly and serene. What General Carranza found in the note as a basis for his encouragement was not stated, but it was learned that he intends to nterpret the warning as a tacit hint that he is the man best fitted to asume ascendancy in Mexico and most kely to receive recognition once the onstitutionalists return to Mexico

It is understood that the reply will point out a steady progress by constitutionalists, indicating an e victory over Villa, Also General Carranza will point out that American recognition would greatly expediate peace in Mexico.

Despite the vigorous objection of counsel for the defence, the court ad-mitted to evidence a letter purported to be written by Williams to Roe's mother at Poughkeepsie. The letter read in part: "I have received three Poughkeepsie papers. I have read about the trouble Harry got into at New York. I cautioned him against taking jewelry such as watches and rings. They are easy to get but, hard to get rid of. I told him never to take anything but money. I am sorry he got into this trouble for I have spent twelve years in prison myself. I told Harry to send me the name and address of the one who caused him to fall. When I was down near New York a short time ago, I got a bullet through the shoulder and I am pretty sick. I know the fellow that shot me and what I will do to him will be plenty. Don't tell anybody my address. I don't see why Harry gave his name as David Williams when he got into trouble or said anything about Winsted."

Counsel for the defence also objected to the introduction of Mr. Case's pocketbook as evidence, but the obection was overruled.
